Peking
Day By Day

BY QUI VIVE
(Staff Correspondence)

Peking, July 10.—"The lull before the storm," is perhaps the best possible phrase to describe the present situation in the capital of China today. Both Chinese and foreign officials are subject to twittery nerves, their tempers are fast nearing the breaking point, and it is well to remember the old biblical quotation about a soft answer, or in this case, a soft question, being the best antidote for wrath.

The whole difficulty has been that for the past three days there has been no news. Hitherto I always believed that "No news was good news" but in this topsy-turvy situation I am constrained to believe that the reverse holds true. In other words when all factions maintain a stolid silence, and their reluctance to jimmy their way into print, becomes an ominous sign.

The very atmosphere itself seems surcharged with excitement. There is a comparatively small amount of traffic on the main thoroughfares, and even that is confined in a large measure to the roaring, bleating motor cars of the military. Yesterday evening I strolled along the Street of Everlasting Peace shortly before sunset. Although the distant chimes on the Cathedral had sounded six o'clock, the merchants along the Hatamen were busily putting up the shutters in front of their shops, and preparing to barricade themselves for the night.

Suddenly shouts arose from one of the small Hu'tungs abutting on the Hatamen, there was the sound of breaking glass, and a small excited mob of about twenty-five surged forth. Instantly the whole Hatamen was in an uproar. The little shops vomited forth their countless inhabitants, who milled back and forth, then hastily sought cover as a detachment of the Metropolitan Police arrived on the double-quick with fixed bayonets, and dispersed the crowd which by this time had grown to quite sizeable proportions.

The policemen formed a hollow square and using their rifle butts as flails soon drove back the disturbers. No shots were fired and there were no casualties except a few sore heads and numerous bruises. It later developed that it was not a mutiny as had first been supposed, but a gregarious cook, who worked for a foreign family, had the misfortune to have several of his wives meet in his kitchen and open hostilities over the division of his last month's salary. He had endeavored to interpose a few mild objections, insisting upon the inalienable right of the breadwinner to divide the spoils of his labor as he saw fit. Hence the rukus.

In ordinary times an incident such as the foregoing would have been too commonplace to have warranted anything more than a passing glance with perhaps a word or two of advice to the cook, but at present it was considered in the light of an organised attempt to overthrow the government.

Speaking of the government, or rather the lack of it, brings us to the consideration of a rather remarkable meeting which was held on Sunday afternoon in Central Park. There were some thirty odd patriotic and psuedo-patriotic organisations represented, each equipped with a gaudy banner, sometimes several, and all fully endowed with a large and glowing retinue of silver-tongued orators. They all speechified at great length and apparently were very earnest in their desires to bring about a reconciliation between the various political factions, advocating many—so many—wonderful changes that a visitor from Mars would doubtless have been deluded into the thought that the millennium had arrived.

Telegrams were drafted to all the government bureaus, as well as other prominent figureheads in the political chess game, including Marshal Tsao Kun, General Wu Pei-fu, General Feng Yu-hsiang (commander of the army protecting Peking), the Provincial assemblies and civil governors of all eighteen provinces, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Tang Shao-yi and many others, too numerous to mention.

The upshot of the meeting was that the earnest young political experts placed themselves on record as being in favor of an immediate conference between the northern and southern warring factions, in order to establish a common basis of understanding. Their deliberations as set forth in an "official" communication addressed to the press included the following stipulations:

The organisation of a joint council of public bodies of Peking

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

A NARROW ESCAPE

A MEEK-LOOKING man, with one eye and a timid, shuffling gait, entered a Houston saloon while no one was in except the bartender, and said:

"Excuse me, sir, but would you permit me to step behind the bar for just a moment. You can keep your eye on me. There is something there I wanted to look at."

The bartender was not busy, and humored him through curiosity.

The meek-looking man stepped around and towards the shelf back of the bar.

"Would you kindly remove that wine bottle and those glasses for a moment?"

The bartender did so, and disclosed a little plowed streak on the shelf and a small hole bored for quite a distance into the wall.

"Thanks, that's all," said the meek man, as he went around to the front again.

He leaned thoughtfully on the bar and said: "I shot that hole in there just nine years ago. I came in feeling pretty thirsty and had no money. The bartender refused me a drink and I commenced firing. That ball went through his ear and five bottles of champagne before it stopped. I then yelled quite loudly, and two men broke their arms trying to get out the door, and the bartender trembled so when he mixed a drink for me you would have thought he was putting up a milk shake for a girl who wanted to catch a street car."

"Yes?" said the bartender.

"Yes, sir, I am feeling a little out of sorts today, and it always makes me real cross and impatient when I get that way. A little gin and bitters always helps me. It was six times, I think, that I fired, the time I was telling you about. Straight whiskey would do if the gin is out."

"If I had any fly paper," said the bartender, sweetly, "I would stick you on it and set you in the back window, but I am out, consequently, I shall have to adopt harsher measures. I shall tie a knot in this towel, and then count ten, and walk around the end of the bar. That will give you time to do your shooting, and I'll see that you let out that same old yell that you spoke of."

"Wait a moment," said the meek man. "Come to think of it, my doctor ordered me not to drink anything for six weeks. But you had a narrow escape all the same. I think I shall go down to the next drug store and fall in a fit on the sidewalk. That's good for some peppermint and aromatic spirits of ammonia, anyhow."

Japanese Chambers In Session Here Warn China Patience Is Nearing End

Advocate Drastic Counter-Measures In Retaliation Against Anti-Japanese Agitation Throughout Country

At yesterday's opening meeting of the joint conference of Japanese Chambers of Commerce in China and Japan and the Sino-Japanese Business Men's Association as reported by the Eastern News Agency Mr. M. Yonesato, Manager of the Nisshin Kisen Shipping Company at Shanghai, and concurrently the Vice-President of the local Japanese Chamber of Commerce, took the chair, and following his statement as to the purpose of holding the present joint conference, representatives of the Japanese Chambers of Commerce in various parts of China delivered speeches concerning the progress and the actual condition of the anti-Japanese agitation. Mr. Yonesato, the Chairman, in addressing the assembly said that since the First Revolution in 1911, the thought of the Chinese young generation have undergone a radical change but nevertheless they have in reality devoted themselves merely to the restorations of China's national rights, with the consequence that the domestic affairs in this country not only still remain the same as existed prior to the Revolution but are growing more complicated and confused than ever.

INTERVENTION NEAR

This chaotic state of affairs has led to such serious incidents as the Lincheng outrage, he said. In fact, the situation in this country is now so gloomy that foreign intervention appears to be near in sight.

It is most imperative for China, therefore, he said, to lose no time in reforming her internal affairs. Japan, as a neighboring country, has up to the present always shown China most profound sympathy and hoped that the latter would do everything within her power to reform her internal affairs, to establish without delay a sound central Government and thus to bring into existence such a perfect country that can secure and guarantee the lives and property of foreigners of all nationalities living within the domain of China. China has not only failed to reform herself but has on the contrary come to take anti-Japanese actions, he said. There exists a tendency that agitation of this sort will grow continuously from bad to worse. Confronted with the furious and outrageous agitation, the Japanese people resident in China have endured with as much patience and with as much self-respect as possible. The unscrupulous and irresponsible Chinese agitators against Japan have of late had such a nerve as to commit anti-Japanese outrage with a view to seeking the invalidity of the Treaty concluded through proper and international measures as well as the restoration of Port Arthur and Dairen, resulting finally in the Changsha incident.

PROTESTS USELESS

Under these circumstances, the Japanese Chambers of Commerce and other public bodies in various places of China have in the past, as a result of their frequent deliberation upon countermeasures, requested the Tokio Government to file a strong protest with the Chinese Government. Accordingly, the Japanese Government has, through the Japanese Legation at Peking and the Japanese Consulates throughout China, lodged grave protests with and given strict warning to the Central Government as well as the provincial authorities concerned of China but all to no purpose.

Judging by this fact, we cannot but come to the conclusion that the powers-that-be of China have been and are enforcing no control whatever over the unlawful anti-Japanese agitation, he said. China is thus, by ignoring the mind of the Government and the people of Japan, perpetrating outrages and steadily carrying out the so-called rupture of her economic relations with Japan,

Both Aim At Protection Of Foreigners In This Country

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 12.—With reference to the prospects of an Anglo-American agreement with regard to better protection of foreigners in China, the Diplomatic Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph learns that intimation has reached London that, subject to certain reservations on points of detail and a general proviso safeguarding the principle of Chinese sovereignty, the views of Washington approximate very closely to those held in London.

Peking, July 12.—Sir Robert Ho Tung's statement that the protection of certain railways does not strike at the root of the evil is widely endorsed by foreigners here who had hoped that as soon as the Lincheng captives were released the Government would adopt drastic methods to surpress the bandits everywhere but it is now pointed out that far from this being the case the Government has merely recognised the strength of the bandit menace and instead of getting rid of it the Government has sought to evade it by the altering of timetables and similar methods. Travellers complain that the chief results of these methods up to the present have been an increase in their discomfort and inconvenience without much increasing of their safety.

The Next President?

THIS is the latest photograph to be taken of Marshal Tsao Kun, who is now the most talked of possibility as the next President of the Chinese Republic. It was taken for THE CHINA PRESS by Capt. Ariel Varges of the International Newsreel at Paotingfu last week. The officer with him is General Lu Chen, his Chief of Staff.

Tsao Kun Will Emulate Mahomet And Mountain In Presidential Fracas

Leading Candidate For President Sets Forth Views On Present Chaotic Affairs In Latest Interview Given Out

"To be President of China at this time would mean a personal sacrifice on my part," said Marshal Tsao Kun to a little group of callers at his home in Paotung-fu, recently.

"It is a great honor but with all the problems confronting the nation today, it is a hard position," he added. "I am anxious to help and am ready to do everything within my power. Who shall be president rests entirely with parliament. If parliament decides I can be of service to the country in that office, I shall serve, the same as I have served my country all my life. Just now, my positon is difficult. If I do nothing, I am accused of being indifferent to the present crisis. If I say anything, it is interpreted as military interference with Parliament."

Marshal Tsao declared that the reports which are appearing almost daily in various newspapers of conferences in Paoting were false. He denied specifically that he had called a conference of his principal supporters and representatives of other parties for this month or that a conference had been held in Paoting, both of which have been frequently reported. He placed the various telegrams and quoted statements which have been reported as coming from him in the same fiction class. At the time, he was talking to Ariel L. Varges, photographer for the International News, and Junius B. Wood, Far East correspondent for The Chicago Daily News. General Lu Chen, his chief of staff and commander of the 9th divison, sat at his side.

"No such conferences have been held or been called for the future, so far as I know," he declared.

"I have been slightly indisposed on account of the heat and for four days have not even seen any callers. As you have had a long trip, I have left my room today for the first time, to see you."

"Personally, I would like to see the situation in Peking and all China's troubles settled," he continued, in reply to other questions. "What the country needs is a strong central government, one strong enough to compel the provinces to obey. Once there is a central government which commands respect, at home and abroad, restoration of the national credit, disbandment of armies, suppression of outlawry and other progress will come as a natural sequence.

"I advocate a commission of representative Chinese should be appointed to consider the nation's domestic and foreign debts, with a man enjoying confidence of both China and foreigners at the head of it. A sinking fund should be created and the terms for their payment fixed. The country has abundant revenues, once they are in the proper channels.

"As to the disbandment of the troops, nothing is accomplished by

Minister Of Marine Declares Washington Conference Served Cause Of Peace

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 11.—The Senate today by 287 votes to 3 adopted the Washington Naval and Pacific Treaties.

Speaking on behalf of the Naval Committee, Senator Lemery enumerated the disadvantages of France under the Treaty. He declared that Japan shared with Britain and America the domination of the waters of the globe, whereas France was placed on an equality with Italy, although the former had a part to play in the North Sea as well as the Mediterranean. He thought that at least the equivalent of the 80,000 tons granted to Germany by the Washington Treaty for the North Sea might have been added to the French ratio. Nevertheless, he recommended ratification.

M. Raiberti, the Minister of Marine, declared that the Treaty of Washington served the cause of peace and urged ratification with a view to maintaining the friendship of the contracting Powers.

MRS. ELIZABETH STEIN AND 'MAL' MALONEY ARE ARRESTED IN ARMS DEAL

Gigantic Arms And Ammunition Smuggling Ring With Ramifications All Over Orient Alleged To Have Been Uncovered Following Arrests—Others Involved May Be Taken Into Custody Today—Handled $3,000,000 Deal With Chang Tso-lin

That Shanghai is the center of a gigantic organisation dealing in illicit arms and ammunition which has handled deals in guns and shells running into the millions of dollars was disclosed yesterday when Mrs. Elizabeth Stein, formerly a Lieutenant in the American Army, and J. J. ("Mal") Maloney, promihent local baseball star and former captain of the Shanghai nine, were arrested charged with importing, keeping and transporting arms and ammunition.

The disclosures involve a number of other Shanghai people, according to information obtained by THE CHINA PRESS last night, and it is expected that three or four more arrests will be made today. The arrests, according to United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar, who has taken the lead in running down gun-runners, will include Stein, who is now in Mukden acting as Advisor to Chang Tso-lin, the dictator of Manchuria.

"Yesterday's arrests are only the beginning," Mr. Husar said last night. "Shanghai is in for a surprise that will upset many notions of 'Who's Who' in the Model Settlement."

RAID OFFICES

The disclosures followed closely upon the arrest of Mrs. Stein and Maloney when American and Municipal authorities raided the Glen Line building offices of "Shanghai Sports," a weekly sporting magazine established by Stein and conducted by his wife during his absence. Maloney has also been employed on the magazine writing baseball news.

In the office was found a literal bale of telegrams and letters involving numerous other alleged gun-runners of British, Chinese, Japanese and Russian nationality as well as other Americans, and showing, according to Mr. Husar, that the Stein's acted as a sort of clearing house for arms deals that ran into the millions of dollars and included thousands of rounds of ammunition, and numerous larger calibre guns including machine guns and field pieces. One deal alone—being negotiated between Stein and Chang Tso-lin—amounted to $3,000,000 according to the documentary evidence Mr. Husar says he has discovered. The telegrams and correspondence also show that Captain L. D. Kearney, who is still being sought by police of all nationalities on similar charges, was connected with the Stein's in importing and selling munitions of war that have been scattered about China to various tuchuns, military leaders and bandit chieftains.

DEAL FELL THROUGH

The biggest deal shown by the Stein correspondence, according to Mr. Husar—in which Chang Tso-lin was listed as the purchaser of guns and shells of all kinds and calibre—fell through for some unknown reason. It was first broached about four months ago and although a contract was signed for the delivery of specified lists of arms and ammunition none was ever delivered. It is said that the Stein's would not deliver the munitions until they had their hands on the money, and that Chang Tso-lin would not give them the money until he had the munitions. Both sides were afraid of being double-crossed in the transaction, according to the District Attorney's office information.

In the correspondence it is disclosed that numerous candidates for 'cumsha' were in communication with the Stein's and it is assumed that the deal fell through partly because their demands were not met.

Mr. Husar is receiving the whole-hearted co-operation of the British and Municipal authorities, he said last night, and developments are expected in the British angle of the far-reaching ramifications today.

HEARING TODAY

The first gun in what promises to be one of the most bitterly fought and sensational legal battles in the history of China over the alleged gun-running will be fought out in the United States Court for China before Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Stein, who after being arrested was held in the American jail—the first woman ever to be held in the jail—was transferred to the Victoria Nursing Home with her baby late yesterday evening, is charged with violating the provisions of the Treaties between the United States and China signed in 1844 and 1858—the same treaties as were invoked in the warrant charging Capt. Kearney with a similar crime.

Late yesterday bail was set at G.$2,000, but as Mrs. Stein was unable to produce the money, she was held in custody. Last night Mr. F. J. Schuhl, her attorney, who has also been retained by Maloney, announced that he was getting out a writ of habeas corpus and would have Mrs. Stein brought before Judge Lobingier this morning. The hearings of both Mrs. Stein and Maloney have already been set before United States Commissioner Nelson Lurton on July 19.

MAY DRINK THEIR OWN

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, July 11.—The United States Shipping Board announces that it cannot prevent passengers drinking their own liquor aboard American ships.

ARREST UNEXPECTED

The arrest of Mrs. Stein was wholly unexpected and altogether dramatic as it took place just as she was returning to her hotel after spending the evening at a moving picture theater.

Mrs. Stein's husband is C. V. Stein, an honor graduate of West Point Military Academy, who served with distinction in the United States Army and came to be known in Manila as an aviator of the first order of merit. After he left the army, Lieutenant Stein and Mrs. Stein came to Shanghai about a year ago. Last November he launched a new weekly publication here which has a wide circulation. This is Shanghai Sports and Mrs. Stein was being escorted home by the editor of the publication, Mr. Warwick M. Tompkins, when the arrest took place.

As she entered the hotel lobby with Mr. Tompkins Mrs. Stein was intercepted by Inspector John Sullivan of the Department of Criminal Investigation of the Settlement and by United States Marshal Thurston B. Foster.

Without formality Mrs. Stein was informed that a warrant had been issued for her arrest and while this was being read she seated herself calmly without making any comment.

ROOM IS SEARCHED

Evidently the police officers had arrived at the hotel only shortly before Mrs. Stein, for while the arrest was being made in the lobby downstairs United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar and Mr. R. T. Peyton-Griffin, Deputy Clerk of the United States Court, were upstairs carrying forward a search of Mrs. Stein's room, No. 63 on the second floor.

In the course of the search of the room trunks, boxes, and all the baggage in the place were opened and thoroughly examined and the contents of the drawers and recepticles of the furnishings were carefully examined with the result that besides scores of letters a large number of telegrams were brought to light and seized. One heavy German Mauser automatic pistol of the type that can be converted into a rifle by fitting a shoulder stock also was found together with a clip of cartridges for the arm.

While this search proceeded swiftly Mrs. Stein's three little boys Charles, age 2, Harold, aged 5 and Arthur, aged seven, slept quietly undisturbed under the white mosquito nettings of their three little cribs and they were left sleeping there when their mother was taken away.

The arrest of Mrs. Stein and search of her apartment followed searches made of living quarters formerly occupied by L. D. Kedrney and further examination of the offices he occupied in the Glen Building also was made.

SEARCH BUSINESS OFFICE

Yesterday morning a search of the offices of Shanghai Sports, which Mrs. Stein has been conducting in her husband's absence from Shanghai was conducted by Inspector Sullivan aided by United States Marshal Porter and Deputy United States Marshal William Van Buskirk. Another mass of telegrams and letters was seized in the course of this search, but no arms or munitions were found.

While the search of the Shanghai Sports office was in progress Mr. J. J. Maloney, who has been serving as a special sport writer on the publication entered to be informed promptly that he was under arrest following which the warrant was read to him by Marshal Porter and he then was taken into custody. Maloney visably was taken by surprise.

"What's it all about—rum-dope or what?" Then they told him and he submitted calmly.

It was found that many of the letters and telegrams seized in the search of Mrs. Stein's living quarters and of the office of Shanghai Sports were addressed to her by her husband. He left Shanghai in May to go to Manchuria and about two weeks ago word was received that he had been given the appointment of "Advisor" to the Mukden military potentate, Gen. Chang Tso-lin.

9—NO. NINE—5

Mrs. Stein—as the first woman prisoner to be kept in the American jail—was given every courtesy by Mr. Husar and United States Marshal Porter. Her arrest at midnight was wholly accidental. It was planned to take her into custody early in the evening but when police arrived at the hotel she had gone out. They waited and arrested her upon her return.

Special accommodations were provided for her in the American court building and as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made yesterday she was removed to the Victoria Nursing Home. She has her baby with her and the other two children are being taken care of by their amah at the Burlington.

Mrs. Stein had a long conference with Mr. Husar yesterday afternoon during the course of which, Mr. Husar said, she made a comprehensive statement admitting all the charges and verifying the facts revealed in the mass of correspondence seized.

Empire Exhibition Assured Success

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 11.—The report of the Board of the British Empire Exhibition for June records steady progress and confidently forecasts that everything will now work harmoniously to the conclusion of the great task of making the Exhibition a complete success. It speaks of the gratifying evidence of its progress in the enthusiasm at home and in the Dominions and Colonies. The space available for exhibitors has almost completely been taken up. As a result of conferences with the police it can confidently be anticipated that there will be no reasonable ground for criticism of traffic arrangements in the future. The expenditure on May 21 stood at £1,110,000 as compared with the estimated expenditure of £1,256,000.

Japanese Chambers Here Warn China

which, we are given to understand, is a violence that comes only next to the opening of actual hostilities. What we want emphatically to point out is that there is a limit to Japan's patience and self-restraint and that time has already come when we, with firm determination, should make certain hopes in the juncture of such crisis, express notes of protest, but formulate some concrete, studied counter-measures, displaying thereby our firm intention. [illegible]

Then Mr. K. Takeuchi, the secretary of the Tientsin Chambers of Commerce, spoke briefly as follows:

"Despite the fact that there [illegible] a section of the Japanese people who started the present anti-Japanese boycott and agitation as the universal voice of the Chinese nation as a whole, it seems certain that the conclusion is entirely wrong, and that the movement of this kind has been carried through by a minority of the Chinese people who want to attain their ends, politically or commercially. From the political point of view, it may safely be stated that the agitation is owing to the strategy and intrigues of the Chihli faction whose object is to divert the attention of the Chinese people to the diplomatic affairs of this country. This may easily be seen from the fact that the anti-Japanese agitation and boycott are most furious with in the sphere of influence of the Chihli faction."

Following the foregoing, several speeches were made by the delegates from Hankow, Changsha, and Chinkiang, and the meeting was closed at 5:30 p.m.

STRAITS WILL PRESENT SITE TO BRITAIN FOR NAVY STATION

Announcement Of Gift In Commons Loudly Cheered

MORE CRITICISM

Viscount Wimborne Is Against Plan, Others Favor It

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 11.—Loud cheers greeted an announcement by Mr. L. C. M. S. Amery, the First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons today in reply to Mr. F. G. Penny that the Duke of Devonshire, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, had received a message from the Governor of the Straits Settlements that with the concurrence of the unofficial members of the Executive and Legislative Councils of the Colony sites for the naval base and aerodrome at Singapore would be acquired by the Government of the Colony and handed over as a free gift.

A message has been sent to the Governor expressing the Imperial Government's warm appreciation of this very generous and welcome patriotic gift.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 12.—In the House of Lords today, proposing a resolution expressing the opinion that the contemplated naval and air expenditure was disproportionate, Viscount Wimborne criticised the Singapore scheme.

The Marquess of Linlithgow, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, warmly championed it as by far the cheapest way of rendering British sea-power effective in the Far East. He remarked that the British Parliament and the country would learn with a very lively sense of gratitude and pride of the gift of the Government of the Straits Settlements.

Even assuming that the battleship became obsolete, aeroplanes would need a base in the Far East, according to Viscount Haldane who said that it was very nice to be able to dominate the Pacific, but command of the air was more urgent than naval power.

The Marquess of Salisbury, replying, said that it was part of our fundamental obligation to provide for the defence of all the Dominions. He incidentally expressed the profound satisfaction of the Government that France was taking the necessary steps to ratify the Washington Agreement.

Viscount Grey, referring to Singapore, thought that it ought quite frankly to be admitted that the contingency in view was a possibility of war in the future, however remote, with Japan.

He trusted that the memory of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance would remain in both countries and make a conflict exceedingly unlikely. Both countries were members of the League of Nations and could not go to war with each other without violating their word in signing the Covenant. Was the Government, he asked, perfectly persuaded that the Singapore dock was a better way of protecting Australia and New Zealand than naval bases in those countries themselves?

In the unlikely contingency of a conflict between Britain and Japan, it was humanly and absolutely certain that there would be a racial conflict in which the United States would be involved on the same side. He was not at all clear that to spend money on the Singapore dock would be the best way to prepare for that contingency or that it was not going to make matters worse. He suggested that it was calculated to evoke corresponding expenditure by other Powers and lead to further increases and thus defeat in the long run the very objects which the Washington Agreements had designed to secure.

Viscount Grey agreed as to the necessity for the great air expenditure but referred in grave terms to the beginning of a competition in armaments with France. If a European competition in armaments proceeded, he declared, it would lead to another war in which all would go down together. He urged, in conclusion, making the League of Nations more of a reality.

The Marquess of Salisbury, replying to Viscount Grey, declared that there was no suggestion whatever, so far as he knew, from any Government calling in question either the letter or the spirit of the Washington Agreement relative to Singapore.

The motion was negatived without a division.

International Labor Office Sees Improvement Here

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 11.—Commenting on the recent steps to improve labor conditions in China, the organ of the International Labor Office hails them as the direct outcome of the efforts of the International Labor Organisation to promote universal standards of conditions of labor.

It cites an article on labor and industry in China by Professor J. B. Taylor of Peking University and by Miss W. T. Zung, published in the July issue of the International Labor Review, as showing how substantial an advance on existing conditions is represented by these reforms.

LADY DEFENDANT UPSETS ROUTINE AT MIXED COURT

Refuses To Enter Dock And Has To Be Forcibly Removed

The frantic and hysterical protestations of the defendant in the case—a Chinese woman of fifty—brought a rapid conclusion to the hearing in the Mixed Court yesterday of an action in which forgery of private seals is alleged in connection with certain documents.

The case came on for hearing before Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Loh, Major C. F. Holcomb appearing for the complainant, Yuan Woo.

When the defendant was led into the court room by the matron she immediately balked at stepping into the dock and began loudly addressing the Bench. Removed forcibly to the dock by police officers and interpreters, she threw herself to the floor, wailing and shrieking. Finally she took a position in front of the dock and just to the rear of the lawyers' benches and here remained quiet for a few moments. Major Holcomb had hardly begun outlining the case, however, when the woman again began shouting at the Assessor and Magistrate and when approached by officers of the court again threw herself to the floor and increased the volume of her hysterical outcry.

Presently Magistrate Loh and Assessor Jacobs grew tired of pounding the bench and requesting order and it was evident that unless someone introduced a Maxim silencer into the proceedings they could not proceed. Therefore the Magistrate announced that the lady would be relegated to a cell for seven days for contempt of court.

It took four policemen to remove her from the court room and the honors were well nigh even in the contest.

Optimistic Note Sounded At Carlton, Ltd., Meeting

Profit Shown Since New Cafe Opened, And Directors View Future With Confidence

Gratification over the success of the New Carlton Cafe and strong optimism for the future were expressed at the second annual meeting of shareholders of The Carlton, Ltd., held at 10 Canton Road yesterday afternoon.

The chair was occupied by Mr. G. Grayrigge, who was supported by Mr. W. J. Gande and Mr. L. Ladow, directors. The chairman's speech follows:

"Gentlemen: During the absence on leave of our chairman, Mr. Welch, the honor of presiding at this meeting has developed on me.

"Since we met together on the 30th of June last year, the main business of the company has been transferred to the handsome new premises facing the Race Course on Bubbling Well Road.

"I dare say you have all seen the beautiful building with its handsome interior decorations, its magnificient dining and dancing halls, which, I think I am right in saying, have no equal for beauty and spaciousness in the Far East and which are the equal of any place of similar entertainment I have seen anywhere.

"The new premises were opened on the 29th of December, and although they were then in a very unfinished and bare condition, attracted large crowds.

TURNOVER GOOD AUGURY

"Unfortunately the opening synchronised with a great wave of business depression the first effects of which are felt by places of entertainment, consequently the takings have not so far averaged up to our expectations, though the turnover in such bad times amounting to $433,907.11 is a good augury of what we may hope to do when prosperity again visits this settlement. Furthermore, I would point out that from April 1 to December 29, 1922, the company carried on its business in the old cramped quarters in Ningpo Road.

"The aim of the company is to provide the very best for the inner man in the dining hall as well as good entertainment in the great ball room in the way of dancing, on an unsurpassed floor to the strains of an excellent orchestra. In addition, various shows are given in the course of the evening at a very modest cost, the quality of which is highly appreciated by the company's guests.

"The New Carlton is recognised as one of Shanghai's institutions and needs only a revival of trade to bring to consummation the expectations on which the company floated.

"The furnishing and decoration of such a vast place came to rather a bigger figure than was estimated, consequently, at the present moment the company is hampered by not having issued in the first place sufficient shares to cover this capital outlay. The financial position is having the Board's serious attention and in due course an announcement will be made as to how the needed extra capital is to be provided.

PLAYS FOR THEATER

"Our theater, the finest in Shanghai, leased to the China Theaters Co. at present showing moving pictures only, has proved an aid in bringing guests into the Cafe, but not to the number anticipated. However, I am told that the China Theaters Co. has secured at least fifty percent of the travelling theatrical companies booked for Shanghai for the coming Winter, consequently I hope a great many more guests may visit our Ball Room at the conclusion of the performances.

"I specially wish to emphasise the fact that the equipment installed in the Carlton, now fully in operation, is instrumental in saving much money formerly paid out for ice, water, bread, cakes, etc. and is not only economical but thoroughly efficient. The refrigerating plant eliminates practically all necessity of ice for chilling purposes. The ice boxes installed are of sufficient size to permit the storing of tons of foodstuffs, purchased when the market prices are right to do so. As the water supply comes from our own well, our expenses in that item are nil. Our electric bake oven, etc. we can truthfully say is turning out the finest bread, pastry, etc. in Shanghai, at a much less cost than if purchased from local bakeries. Guests are welcome at all times to inspect the equipment and kitchens.

"The roof garden so far has not been used owing to the bad weather, but will undoubtedly prove its worth, as no cooler or more delightful place to spend a hot summer's evening, can be found. The roof garden was constructed with the viewpoint of using it not only as a roof garden but as an open air cinematograph as well.

RUNNING COST REDUCED

"Running costs which in a business of this nature at the outset are bound to be of a liberal scale, are now being reduced to rock bottom, economies of all kinds being effected, not however, to the detriment of the company's guests who may rely upon the fact that only the very best is served to them. The staff watchwords are the best catering, the best entertainment and the best service in the Far East. And here I think it appropriate to voice the company's thanks to Mr. Ladow and his staff who worked night and day to effect a successful opening before New Year's Day, and who are still doing and will continue to do all in their power to make the New Carlton the great success it deserves to be. Also a word of praise is due to the Shanghai Building Company, Inc., who put up the building in record time, though when voicing this praise I do so without prejudice to the little difference of opinion that now exists between them and this company.

"I now invite your attention to the accounts. If you will look at the profit and loss account, you will see that it has been necessary to write off only Taels 1,521.85 for Bad Debts, an equivalent of approximately ½ of one percent on our total turnover, an excellent result in a cafe business two thirds of which is done on a chit basis.

"Depreciation, as approved by the company's Auditors to the extent of Tls. 11,390.42 is provided for and the balance of net profit for the year is shown as Tls. 13,670.-61. This sum is unfortunately too small to permit a recommendation of a dividend but let us hope for better results in the future.

"The Balance Sheet I think is self explanatory, but if details of any items are required, I shall be pleased to do my best to explain. Sundry Debtors are made up of chits in course of collection and on present turnover represent about 6 weeks takings, and show the necessity of some spare working capital in a business of this kind.

"On the Liability side we have Capital issued standing at Tls. 346,850, out of an authorised $500,000. Sundry Creditors figure as Tls. 68,118.35 and it is towards reduction of this item the Board is at present directing special attention.

"This is all I have to report, gentlemen, I now beg to propose the first resolution, viz:

"That the report and accounts as presented to shareholders for the financial year ended March 31, 1923 are hereby adopted and passed, and that the amount of Taels 13,670.61 standing at credit of profit and loss account be carried forward to the new account."

This was seconded by Mr. W. J. Gande.

British Seamen On The Leviathan Taken As Deserters

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 11.—Twenty-two summonses were issued against British members of the crew of the American liner, Leviathan, on her arrival at Southampton.

The Cunard Line state that the action is not merely punitive but is designed to end desertions, which have numbered 600 in the past five months, the men being tempted by the higher pay on American vessels.

Although the Leviathan is officially dry, many passengers brought liquor on board, the unconsumed portion being seized or charged for by the British Customs.

Peking
Day By Day

as a permanent organisation.

To urge upon members of parliament the great necessity of drafting a constitution at the earliest possible date.

To hold a national peace and reunification conference to be convened to solve the many perplexing problems of the present day.

To circulate a telegram to all provincial governors asking their views on the holding of such a conference.

To express the hope that after a permanent constitution had been drafted and approved by parliament, a presidential election might take place with all the legal ceremonies attached thereto.

To send emissaries to various sections of China without delay, in order they might ascertain the feeling of the people.

And, finally, to seek the support of the whole Republic for the resolutions determined upon.

The meeting broke up shortly after dark, despite the fact that many of the above mentioned orators were just getting well into their stride and were indulging in that sweetest of all moments, the peroration. But the claims of the inner man outweighed those of patriotism, and the eager constituents departed for home and dinner.

Although the speeches were in the most part confined to a very milk and watery exposition of the difficulties in China during the present day, an order was issued the day following to the Metropolitan Police to refuse permission for the convening of any future meetings, especially with respect to the activities of the Union of Peking Students, whose utterances are considered to be exceptionally deleterious to the good of the country.

Like students the world over, the embryo politicians of Peking have been causing the few remaining members of the Central Government no small embarassment by their vitrolic utterances both publicly and privately, but especially as a result of their published communications in the local press.

It was only last week that the Secretary of the Peking Students Union wrote a letter to Sr. De Freitas, Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps, expressing great mortification on behalf of his fellow members, that China should have so little merited the splendid actions taken by the Powers on China's behalf and expressing the hope that Sr. de Freitas would inform his colleagues that the only way to bring the present militaristic government to its senses, was to withdraw recognition from China without delay.

Until this letter was published in the Peking press and cabled by many of the foreign newspaper correspondents stationed here, little attention had been paid to the activities of the Peking Students Union, since their utterances had been considered more of less in the light of yawpings of adolescent youth.

But the very fact that the letter, although couched in diplomatic language, nevertheless made its purpose none the less clear, and since it was the first definite expression coming from a Chinese who had completed his education abroad, the government could not afford to neglect it. Hence their attempt to surpress any further activities of the students, as being traitorous to the present government. Sr. de Freitas has not yet replied to the Students communication, since he is absent at Peitaiho, but an answer of the diplomatic body is none the less eagerly expected, since in a measure it will serve as a "Barometer" of official action.

Association Of Tenants Fights Raising Of Rents

Twenty-one Chinese tenants who had organised an association for the purpose of contesting a raise in their rentals appeared in the Mixed Court before Assessor Mead and Magistrate Kwan yesterday following application for distress warrants by Messrs. Brandt and Rodgers, agents for the Chinese owner.

The tenants, calling themselves the Ching Sing Lee Tenants' Association and represented by Messrs. Davies and Bryan, allege that the rentals on their dwellings in the Ching Sing Lee, Avenue Road, have been raised 31 percent and that the valuation on which the increase is made is considerably exaggerated. They have, therefore, asked that the application for distress for rent be dismissed.

Mr. Reader Harris, of Messrs. White-Cooper, Master and Harris, appearing for the plaintiffs, Brandt and Rodgers, denied the allegations of the tenants and said that the statement of valuation which had been submitted was correct. This statement shows a total investment in the property of Tls. 162,294.10 and yearly expenditure for upkeep of $3,610.42. Mr. R. T. Bryan, Jr., claimed that a correct figure on the valuation would be between $60,000 and $70,000.

The original rent of the property, plaintiffs' statement shows at 6.5 percent of the amount invested and the increased rent at about 9 percent of the amount invested, and this, Mr. Reader Harris contended was entirely equitable. Tls. 11,000 had been spent recently for repairs. If the tenants refused to pay they could get out. The landlord did not want them if they would not pay the rent. He himself had had his rent increased by 43 percent recently by a local company, but he paid it.

The Court referred to the restriction act which had been in operation in the Mixed Court for some time, to which Mr. Reader Harris replied that the act came into operation to meet a different case—it was to prevent landlords increasing rentals in order to get rid of tenants.

The Court was of opinion that the only thing to do was to have a valuation of the property made by an independent expert and the hearing was accordingly adjourned until such time as the report of the valuation is made.

HAPPINESS IS USUALLY A MATTER OF TENSE, EITHER OF THE PAST OR THE FUTURE

Intense Interest In Battle Of Giants; 500,000 Try To Get Tickets; Willard Is Favorite

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, July 12.—Intense interest prevails here in the Willard-Firpo fight, scheduled for today. Thousands clamored for tickets to the great enclosure at Boyle's Thirty Acres, some estimates of the crowd that will see or try to see the battle running as high as 500,000. The great bowl erected by Tex Rickard for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight two years ago will not begin to accommodate the immense throngs that will try to get in.

Tickets for the fight are being sold at from one to fifteen dollars, the latter being the maximum price allowed under the New Jersey law. This undoubtably accounts for a large part of the demand for the pasteboards, and shows how eager the boxing public is to see ring contests when the promoters are balked in their million dollar purse ideas.

Willard rules a slight favorite on the eve of the battle, the ancient Jess having plenty of friends and backers. There are numerous fight followers, however, including experts, who, although they like Willard's chances can't make themselves believe that a man of his years forty-two, can stand up under the punishment that such a husky opponent as Firpo is sure to inflict on him. They admit they witnessed a miracle a few weeks ago when Willard flattened Johnson in the Milk Fund battle, but they hesitate to think that miracles, particularly that one, will repeat.

Both men are in fine condition. Willard will enter the ring at around 250 pounds, while Firpo will scale at about 217.

Experts admit that a good deal will depend on ring strategy in this fight. In all his recent battles the Wild Bull of the Pampas has literally crashed his way to victory, sending his sledge hammer rights through the guard of his opponents. Against Willard, however, he may not be able to do this, as the Giant Jess has arms like the butt ends of telephone poles, which is pretty good insurance that Mr. Firpo's shots will not break through them easily. He may get around the Willard guard, but he is not apt to get through it.

If Willard can stave off the Argentinian's rushes until he can get in one of his own right uppercuts it may be curtains for Firpo. On the other hand, if Jess fails to protect his body, which is so bulky that it makes an easy target for his opponents, Firpo may wear him down gradually. Floyd Johnson, in his battle with Willard, sunk his fists "clear to the wrists," as one sports writer expressed it, into Willard's mid section, but there wasn't the necessary steam behind the punches to send Jess down. The question now is: Can Firpo find the same marks, and will his blows carry the steam that Johnson's lacked?

Among the interested spectators at the battle will be Jack Dempsey, heavyweight title holder, and his manager, Jack Kearns, both of whom will watch the two giants closely. In addition to this pair, the whole of the vast New York sporting public, or such portions of it as can obtain tickets, will be at the big enclosure.

The Browns lost to the Tigers while Boston and Washington played a 10 inning no-decision contest. These results altered the standing of the teams with the Cubs climbing to fourth place.

In the National League the Giants arned an even break with Boston while the Pirates were gaining a game in the percentage ladder closer to the McGraw team. Philadelphia and Brooklyn evened up in their double header.

McTigue Is Only Real Irish World Champion

Mike McTigue, who recently won the light heavyweight championship, is one of the few native born Irishmen to win a world title. The Irish always have predominated in the ring, but most of the men of that race who won titles were American born.

At the present time there are four Irish champions. They are Lynch, Walker, Tunney and McTigue. Three of the four were born in America.

B. W. A. Notes

By kind permission of the Hongkong Hotels Company, it is proposed to hold evening concerts in the grounds of the Hotel Majestic in Bubbling Well Road. These alfresco entertainments should prove a great attraction during the hot nights in July, August and September and the British Women's Association is to be congratulated on securing such beautiful surroundings. The program will consist of selections by a good orchestra, songs by well known local artistes and other interesting items, including an occasional film production.

There will be a small fee for admission—the proceeds to go towards the Headquarters Endowment Fund—and light refreshments will be served during the evening at a nominal charge by the Hongkong Hotels Company, Ltd.

SPORTS SECTION

Mr. Freeman, whose kindness in giving instruction in revolver shooting has been much appreciated by this Section, left for home on the 7th. The Association tenders its grateful thanks for his valuable services and wishes him a pleasant voyage and holiday at home.

The Section proposes to hold a tennis tournament in September and it is hoped that all the members will enter for the different events, details of which will be published later.

During the absence from Shanghai of Mrs. Master, chairman, and Mrs. Bichard, secretary, Mrs. Hall and Miss Foster have consented to act for them in all matters connected with the Sports Section.

Those members who are helping with "Ye Old English Fayre" can obtain patterns of the materials for their dresses from Miss Foster.

N. C. Volleyballers Beat Chin Woo Teum

Before a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators in the gymnasium of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., the North China Volleyball team trimmed the Chin Woo Athletic Association in two straight sets, 21-16, 21-15. The game was featured with some spectacular plays and the score was close throughout.

The Chin Woo players did their best to cop the game. As play has been abandoned sometime ago, most of the men were out of form. During both the two sets, however, they fought an uphill fight, and time and again, it looked as if they would even up the score and win the set, but failed on both occasions owing to the radical smashing of the northern ball-tossers.

The northern team which is now touring East and South China to stir up the interest of the game for the preparation of the next Olympic Games to be held at Manila in 1925, is composed of players from the different colleges in Peking and Tientsin. They showed supremacy in every department of the game, especially in serving, passing and smashing, but they did not exhibit so much class as the southern team which represented China in the last Olympic Games at Osaka and was defeated by the Filipino aggregation by a narrow margin. They left here last evening for Canton to meet that team, and will probably meet defeat there.

POET DELIGHTS ROTARIANS AT WEEKLY MEETING

Mr. Berton Braley, the celebrated American poet, spoke before the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday at the Union club. Mr. Braley writes a weekly poem, which is broadcasted by the Newspaper Enterprise Association of America to over 50 publications. Some of the gems were recited at yesterday's meeting which were enthusiastically received.

Mr. Braley proved himself to be not only a poet, but also a satirist, philosopher and wit.

The two winners of the Rotary Club scholarships at the American School, Alexander Moffett and William Lockwood, are all set for a college education in the United States.

Moffett will enter Washington and Lee when the Fall term rolls around, while Lockwood is to be a Freshman at DePauw University.

The club tennis tournament has started with seventeen entries. Each match will consist of ten games. The score will be the number of games won by each contestant. The man having the largest number of games to his credit on October 1st will be the winner. Time and place of all games will be by individual arrangement.

TALK ON BANDIT CAMP

Excellent pictures depicting the camp life at Paotzuku during the captivity of the foreign and Chinese passengers of the ill-fated Blue Train were shown by Messrs. J. B. Powell and Mr. Lee Solomon, two of the captives, before the Rotary Club at the Union Club last night. Mr. Powell delivered the first part of the lecture, while Mr. Solomon completed the story of captivity.

The lecturers paid a high tribute to Mr. Roy Anderson, and Mr. S. T. Wen, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Nanking for their efforts in securing the release of the captives. Mr. Powell said that Mr. Wen took his life in his hands when he entered the bandit lair four days after the outrage at Lincheng and opened negotiations with the bandits. Over 70 lantern slides were screened.

Mr. W. P. Hawkings, president of the club, presided.

Tsao Sets Forth Views On Present Chaotic Affairs

waving of flags and empty talk of schemes which cannot be carried out. Once the country is restored to normal, this will come naturally. The demobilised soldiers must be looked after; given work, assistance in money or transported to Mongolia where they can be given land and an opportunity to settle down and become self-supporting.

"Solution of all these problems will require time but I believe they will come through the ultimate patriotism of the country and the Chinese people. I want to accomplish them by peaceful methods."

The marshal's expressed desire for peaceful methods brought reference to the northern expeditions of this year into Kwangtung, Szechwan and Fukien provinces. Dispatches captured by Cantonese troops in General Shan Hung-ying's headquarters in Kwangtung indicated the latter was operating under orders of Marshals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu while General Tung Yu-chok, commanding the latter's 9th mixed brigade, had advanced a considerable distance into Kwangtung before he was killed and the brigade routed.

"The fighting in Kwangtung is of Cantonese against Cantonese," said Marshal Tsao. "The northern troops were stationed on the Kiangsi border merely to prevent a possible invasion by the Cantonese. They did not invade Kwangtung."

It was added that Marshal Tsao has personally sent $30,000 to be distributed among the villages which had suffered during the fighting.

"General Shun is a Kwangsi general and has been in communication with Chihli," said General Lu. "The telegrams from here which may have been captured in his headquarters were merely acknowledgments of receipt of reports from us."

Marshal Tsao was optimistic for harmony between the Chihli, Anhui, Fengtien and Kuomingtang parties, but questions failed to elicit any details as to how this hopeful result is to be accomplished. Though their political aims may differ, the personal relations of Marshal Tsao and the leaders of the Anhui and Fengtien elements are friendly. Tsao and Tuan Chi-jui are bound together by the years of fraternalism in the Peiyang military hierarchy while family ties link Tsao and Chang Tso-lin, one of the former's daughters being married to a son of the Mukden dictator. The same sentimental ties do not exist with Dr. Sun Yat-sen. It must be an agreement on principles.

"A representative of Dr. Sun was here in Paoting a short time ago but he has left now," the marshal said. "The differences of the factions will be smoothed out. A strong China is the ultimate goal of all. It may be reached by different roads."

The marshal was asked whether there is any truth in reports that his principal aide, Marshal Wu Pei-fu, does not approve of the present presidential campaign, as has been inferred from a statement of the latter that a telegram purporting to come from him urging an early election was a forgery.

"Marshal Wu is a militarist men and very properly is following his well known rule that a military man should not interfere in politics," said Marshal Tsao. "He has not said anything one way or the other in regard to the political situation in Peking, regardless of what he has accurately reported as saying."

"Marshal Wu is fully in favor of his chief becoming president," declared General Lu.

"Loyang and Paoting still are one family," Marshal Tsao added later.

Marshal Tsao gave it as his opinion, when the question was asked, that Li Yuan-hung is no longer president and that Parliament has accepted his resignation. He was asked whether his influence had forced President Li to abandon his office and flee to Tientsin.

"A year ago, after the Chihli-Fengtien war in which Chihli was victorious, I called parliament together again, and invited Li Yung-hung to come to Peking to function," the marshal said. "I could have been elected president at that time if I had desired. Instead of that, I was in favor of Li Yuan-hung's resumption of office. That should prove that I am not hostile to him.

"President Li personally promised to pay the soldiers and police of the metropolitan area," he continued. "He could not keep his promise and that was why he had left Peking."

Bandits are a persistent feature of life in Chihli, Shantung and Honan province over which Marshal Tsao is the inspector general. His views on the subject were requested.

"I have issued orders for the suppression of every bandit band between the Tangtsze river and the Great Wall at Shanhaikwan," he replied. "My commanding officers have reported progress from time to time. I am not permitting the campaign to lag."

He was asked regarding developments in Shantung as a result of the train wrecking and kidnappings at Lincheng.

"General Tien Chung-yu, the tuchun, has sent his resignation to Peking and its acceptance is awaiting action by the Cabinet," he said. "I do not appoint the tuchuns in the three provinces over which I am inspector general. That is done by the Peking government."

The talk was held in the reception room of Marshal Tsao's walled-in city residence. Large photographs of the Pope, former President Woodrow Wilson and a Y.M.C.A. secretary with smaller individually autographed ones of the present British, French and Portuguese ministers hang on the walls. The marshal's hospitality and friendships are democratic.

Life in Paoting is quiet and easy-going for Marshal Tsao and he referred to the loss of that when remarking that the duties of president would demand a personal sacrifice. His favorite diversion is a new public park, 2,000 mow (333 1-3 acres) of fallow land which he has purchased outside the city walls and is improving for a pleasure ground at his own expense. It is to be a perpetual monument of his rule in the Chihli capital. The marshal says that 200,000 new trees have been planted, many of them by himself.

In a city as unchanging as Paoting, the new park where the grass has not yet sprouted from the brown soil, is an ambitious undertaking. Broad driveways, artificial grottoes, arbors with newly planted vines, a lake and fountain, canals with pleasure boats, tea houses and restaurants, a theater, several private houses for the marshal and his entourage, a zoo with wild animals, a railroad station and concrete viaduct, miles of trees and shrubs and the ever-present wall which surrounds everything in China, are already accomplished.

Marshal Tsao passes much of his time in his new pleasure ground. He was accompanied by his oldest son, an authoritive lad of 8 years, the other afternoon. The marshal was 55 when his first son was born. He is a stalwart figure, vigorous and quick in movement, with an unmistakable soldierly bearing, behind the loose fitting linen suit of European cut and the smiling fatherly face. His laugh is hearty and the good natured wrinkles mount from eyes to top of his close shaven head. Occupied with his trees planting and surrounded with his children, Marshal Tsao is far from the popular conception of the doyen of China's militarists. He will be a president of the plain people—if the office comes to him.

French President Is On Motor Tour Of Provinces

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 11.—The President of the Republic, continuing his motor-tour through the Vivarais, left Privas this morning for the health resort of Vals les Bains. At a banquet M. Millerand testified to the progress achieved from the point of view of touring in these picturesque districts. The President then left for Bourg Saint Andeol on the banks of the Rhone, and later for Beaune.

The Bey of Tunis left Marseilles this morning for Lyons. He sent to the President a message assuring him of his attachment to the French nation. M. Millerand replied in a message of thanks.

The Chamber of Deputies is continuing the discussion of reform in secondary education. M. Gaston Deschamps paid a tribute to the French instructors who knew how to maintain in education the ideal treasure of French intellect in contra-distinction to the materialist doctrines of Germanism.

The flying squadron under the flag of Admiral Gilly has arrived at Toulon on its return from its world tour. The experts on French commerce and industry on board are returning satisfied with the result of their tour.

The Good Will Delegation today visited the Gallic-Roman monuments at Nimes.

The French newspapers note with satisfaction the more conciliatory attitude of the British press and the Reuter telegram forecasting Mr. Baldwin's statement in the Commons and that it will leave the door open for pourparlers between Britain and France. The Matin recalls that at the armistice the number of houses destroyed by Germany totalled 741,993 and on June 30 last near 600,000 had already been reconstructed. Before the war the population of the liberated districts totalled 4,700,000 and the number of the inhabitants who have returned to the devastated territory is 4,200,000. The general valuation of the devastations was 100,000,000,000 francs and out of that sum France has already found 55,000,000,000 francs out of her own savings. In 1922 the taxes levied in the devastated districts already amounted to 2,000,000,000 francs and this year they will certainly reach 3,000,000,000 francs. It is the first time, the Matin concludes, that a victorious and invaded country has been obliged to find by its own means possibilities of reconstructing the districts destroyed by the enemy.

The town of Constantinople is beginning preparations for the celebration of the signing of peace. The great majority of the Turkish press welcomes with satisfaction the forthcoming signature of the Treaty, which will open for Turkey an era of liberty.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:
Exchange:—After rising 5-16d. to 31⅝d. the London price of silver at 31¼d. is 3-16d. higher than last week.
The quotation for two months forward delivery is 31d.
During the week our local Gold Dealers liquidated a large amount of their overbought position in Gold and our rates for T-T on London advanced to 3-1¼d. With the secession of this operation our Market declined ½d. to-day to 3-0⅝ T-T on London. There is very little genuine cover in the way of Export paper offering and a fair demand for Gold T-T. We closed with a weak tendency.
Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—
Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 23,950,000 an increase of Tls. 930,000.
Chinese and Mexican Dollars $34,900,000 a decrease of $520,000.
Estimated value Tls. 49,078,000 as against Tls. 59,054,000 held at this time last year.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their fortnightly report on the coal market:
Japan Coal:—Market prices for coal in Japan have been ruling easier of late and this has enabled a certain amount of new business to be done with native dealers in spite of the high rates of freight and unfavourable exchange now ruling.
Kaiping Coal:—Shipments have been steady during June and cargoes for the most part have gone —straight into consumption. Heavy demands have been received from Coast and Yangtsze Ports and local stocks are normal. No. 1 Lump is now becoming available in small quantities for the open market.

Weather Report

July 11.—High pressures east of Nippon and over the Baikal Lake. The depression is crossing the Korea Strait NE ward. The typhoon is advancing WNW ward to the West of Yap. July 12, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each down ⅛d in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 62¾ cents and the London New York cross rate advanced to 458⅝.

At the opening our official Sterling rate was dropped to 3-0½ but as the market was weak it subsequently dropped another farthing to 3-0¼, the Gold Dollar rate being then dropped to 69¼, the Yen rate raised to 70¾ and the other rates changed accordingly.

In the early part o fthe morningour market was weak but steadied up during the day. The lowest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3-0⅝ for July, 3-0¼ for August and 3-0 3-16 for Sept. The lowest rates for Gold Dollars were 69½ for July and 69¾ for forward.

However, there were generally good sellers at these rates and later in the day the market steadied up considerably, closing with sellers of Sterling at 3/0⅛ for July, 3/0⅞ for August and 3/0⅝ for September.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 69⅞ for July and 69¾ for August. There were sellers of Yen at 69⅝ for July, 69⅞ for August and 70 for forward.

Banks were quoting 3/1⅜ and 71⅜ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 3/1⅛ and 71½ for forward. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1205.

India, China and the Continent all sold silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing steady. New York also report their market as steady at present rates.

WHEN BABY IS CROSS AND LEEPLESS TRY BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

After That You Will Never Want To Be Without Them In The House.

When baby is cross and sleepless there is something wrong and the little one is taking the only means he has of telling it. Under such circumstances the temptation to administer a sleeping draught, or opiate of some kind, is often great, but don't do it unless expressly ordered by a competent doctor who has seen the child. Instead give him Baby's Own Tablets, which are guaranteed to contain no opiates; they send the child to sleep simply because they remove the causes of his sleeplessness and make him feel good and comfortable.

Baby's Own Tablets are a remedy for simple fever, indigestion, constipation, colic, croup, diarrhœa. They make teething easy and destroy worms. Of chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Shanghai And Manila

MR. Harold Dollar's idea of a conference of American business men and officials to further the community interests of Shanghai and Manila is one of the best of the numerous practical suggestions he has put forward and since the best part of the American Chamber president's ideas is the fact that he possesses the driving power necessary to putting them through it is altogether probable that representatives of the two communities will find themselves at a round table in the not distant future, discussing ways and means of furthering the development of the two greatest Oriental ports.

Mr. R. Renton Hind, of Manila, who was in the city a few hours Wednesday, made the significant statement that whenever the Americans in Manila thought of China they always thought of Shanghai, whereas the Filipinos, when China was mentioned in their presence, always thought of Hongkong. Mr. Hind felt sure, and Mr. Dollar concurred with him, that if proper overtures looking to closer co-operation were made by Americans in Shanghai to their fellow nationals in Manila this state of affairs would be changed, which in time would have very far reaching results, including the conversion of the Filipinos to the patent truth that Shanghai is the real center of trade and manufacturing in China.

This would be a fine thing for the very good reason that Shanghai is becoming more and more of a manufacturing center, whereas the Islands produce a large number of the raw materials that should flow into the maws of this city's manufacturing establishments. If Shanghai and Manila understood each other better many of the island products that are now converted into the finished article in Europe and the United States would be so converted in factories here, and it is in the hope of bringing about that better understanding that Mr. Dollar plans to get representative business men, merchants and officials of the two communities into a "get together" conference.

Shanghai, Mr. Hind pointed out, should have sugar refineries for the conversion of the Philippine raw product into the marketable article, and there is no doubt that if these refiners existed here the trade returns of this port would show a tremendous increase. The sugar that now comes to China in a refined state from a Philippine source has to be sent all the way to America in a raw form and all the way back to China after it is refined. This is wasteful and expensive.

Refined here, the Philippine sugar would be cheaper, which in turn would enlarge the market for that commodity in Central and North China. There is no theory about this, because precisely that result happened in South China after two refineries were established in Hongkong.

Trade follows the hand-clasp. Put two men alone on a desert island and no sooner are the salutations concluded than one of them is trying to trade his pocket knife for the other's shirt. Bartering is a universal human trait, as essential to life as air or water, but before there can be trade there must be acquaintance, friendship. Placed on separate islands there would be no proffer of pocket knife for shirt.

That, relatively, is the position today of Shanghai and Manila. We do not know each other well enough. The islands, Mr. Hind says, are capable of producing two million tons of raw sugar annually, against a present production of three hundred thousand tons. In China there is a potential market for that sugar, awaiting only the enterprise of men who will refine it here in Shanghai. To get it here requires cargo room, and the maintenance of cargo carriers requires dock yards and the like, all of which means more business all 'round.

If Shanghai and Manila were better acquainted they would undoubtably discover that they have other commodities that could be exchanged with profit to both. Shanghai's growing factories need an ever expanding market, and there is little doubt that there is room for that expansion to the south of us.

The first step in the accomplishment of all these good results, however, is acquaintance, as Mr. Dollar suggests, and for that reason the sooner he can bring about the proposed conference the better it will be for all parties concerned.

PRESBYTERIANS AND DARWINISM

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir.—I have just read your news item in last Sunday's issue entitled "Presbyterians Beat Bryan on Darwinism Issue," and while it is on the whole a good newspaper account of what took place, it is misleading in the impression produced on the reader because of what it fails to tell.

True the assembly rejected Mr. Bryan's sweeping, yet insufficient resolution, and adopted Dr. Baer's which in effect calls on all presbyteries to see to it that no college within their bounds in which materialistic philosophy or anything contrary to the teachings of the Bible is permitted shall receive financial help from the church. This is only the gist of the resolution, and quoted from memory. I think I am safe in saying that in some respects the resolution will achieve more definite results than that which it displaced would have done, yet along the same general lines.

The temper of the assembly toward what we are calling "modernism" was shown by the vote on the overture of the presbytery of Philadelphia asking the assembly to call the attention of New York presbytery to the irregularities of the first Presbyterian Church of New York in permitting Dr. Fosdick to occupy the pulpit and preach doctrines contrary to our standards. Though the committee brought in a resolution that the matter be held over until next assembly, as it was now under consideration by the presbytery concerned, the assembly rejected the majority report of twenty-one members of the committee, and, by a large majority adopted the minority report of the remaining one member which calls on the presbytery to take action now and end the present irregularity.

I have never asked permission to trespass on your valuable space before, and probably shall never do so again, therefore trust you can find room for this in the interests of truth—the whole truth.

(Rev.) John H. Hunter.

Establish a Reserve For Emergency Spending

BY J. J. MUNDY

You have reached a dangerous period in your life if you are self supporting, yet using all your income to keep up appearances in the circle of society in which you move.

If you have a family it is so much the worse. For with a family one can never tell just when expense, unavoidable on account of sickness or accident, will compel a large expenditure.

If you have only yourself to account for it is bad enough, if you have pride; for you would be ashamed to own you could not care for yourself in case of sickness or calamity, would you not?

Likely the men with whom you associate would consider themselves very foolish if they were using such a proportion of their monthly income for just ordinary expenses, and how much better they could afford it.

You may not wish to think of that "rainy day" period, but it comes.

What are you going to do about it? Suppose your income should stop suddenly?

Be wise and cut down your outlay—accumulate a reserve fund—and then keep on saving a portion of your salary or wage.

The natural end of the fool born every minute has just been discovered. Statistics published in the United States show that there's a marriage performed every minute.

O. HENRY—THE MAN AND HIS WORK

BY HIS LIFELONG FRIEND
C. ALPHONSO SMITH
HEAD OF DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH
U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY, ANNA POLIS, MD.
Author of the authorised "Life of O. Henry"

Much has been written about O. Henry's humor as shown in his calculated misquotations, his inverted phrasing, his verbal contractions. But O. Henry's humor is only incidentally a thing of words and phrases. You may omit these and O. Henry would still be a great humorist. Had these been essential, his stories could never have survived translation, for translation shears away remorselessly all that is merely verbal. No, O. Henry's characters are not humorous because they say funny things. They say funny things because they are humorous. O. Henry's humor has been acclaimed by a world of grateful readers because, like the humor of Shakespeare and Moliere and Cervantes, it rises naturally and spontaneously from the situations in which his characters are placed. The situations become themselves creative; they belong to the elemental nature of comedy. They are matrix rather than copy, and the humor is born rather than made. Review the situation in "The Handbook of Hymen," "A Cosmopolite in a Cafe," "The Brief Debut of Tildy," "A Lickpenny Lover," "Two Renegades," "The Gift of the Magi," "The Cop and the Anthem," "Makes the Whole World Kin," "The Lady Higher Up," "The Pendulum," "The Making of a New Yorker." In each of these the stage is set by a master. There is subtle thought, even profound thought, not so much in the working out of the plots as in the selection and fore-staging of such humorous situations as make the plots work themselves out. Humor is released rather than manufactured. It plays hide-and-seek with pathos in many of these stories, and not infrequently both humor and pathos come before the footlights hand in hand to receive the plaudits of an audience that finds it hard to say which is which.

A special distinction of O. Henry's humor is that it is not harsh, or cynical, or derisive. It is humane because it is fundamentally human. It is associative rather than separative in its effect. As soon as you read one of his stories you want to read it aloud to others. But you do not have to pick your audience for fear that feelings will be hurt. Rich or poor, educated or illiterate, employer or employee, black or white, man or woman—all will find their common heritage of humanity reached and enriched. Much of the stage humor of today, certainly that of the school of Wilde and Shaw, derives most if its sparkle from what has been called "the neat reversal of middle-class conceptions." There is no such reversal in O. Henry. Instead of pitting class against class, he reveals class to clahs and section to section. He seems to say: "You think the other fellow is funny. Well, you are just as funny as he is."

With his originality and humor must be considered his Americanism. He never visited England or the Continent. But he knew his own country; and his journeyings in Central America, South America, and Mexico gave him just the angle of contrast that was needed to enable him to run the boundary line sharply between what was American and what was not. If we omit the stories of New York and Texas, which include one hundred and seventy titles, there are left twenty additional states represented by O. Henry's backgrounds. If he had not visited all of these and studied their regional differentials at first hand, he had at least heard intimately about them. He knew them accurately enough to make both plot and characters fit naturally and revealingly into each setting that he chose.

But Americanism is not a matter of geography. It is a spirit, a mood, a temperament, an attitude toward men and things, a way of looking at life, of expressing life, and of achieving life. Foreigners detect it more readily than we do. Thus Hugh Walpole, writing in the London Daily Mail, declares that American literature has at last become "independent;" and he hails O. Henry as "the true father of this new American literature."

It is impossible to corral Americanism in the confines of a scientific definition but one element of O. Henry's Americanism emerges in a report that came from the battlefields of France. "As a trench companion," so ran a soldier's comment, "O. Henry cannot be surpassed. He is brief, he is witty, he is deliciously human. Without meaning to, apparently, he teaches a philosophy of cheerful acceptance of 'The Things That Are To Be'." Add to this his instinctive aversion to indecency in every form; recall, too, his exacting idealism which made him say almost with his latest breath, "I want to get at something bigger. What I have done is child's play to what I can do, to what I know it is in me to do"—and you have the American, the artist, and the man in one.

"The Folks Out Front"

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Not so long ago a well-known author had his first play produced. In one scene there was a wall hung with pictures. When the author came to rehearsal he found that not a single picture had glass over it. Haughtily he summoned the stage manager and insisted that this be attended to at once.

"Nothing to do, sir," explained the canny old stagehand. "If there's glass on those pictures, there's going to be an ugly reflection when the lights hit 'em. And all the folks in the front rows are going to sit there seeing their reflections in the glass. You have to set the stage so it will produce the impression of being a real room. And you got to allow a lot for how it's going to look to the folks out front."

The author protested. Didn't he know more about how he wanted the "set" to look than any mere stage-manager could—hadn't he written the play—wasn't his knowledge of the scene he wanted depicted superior to that of a mere utility man?

But the stage manager stood firm. He knew his game. He knew how to get effects. And with the backing of the manager and the director and the producer, he won out. But to this day the author fancies the failure of his play can be attributed in part to his being overruled in many points of stage direction and stage-setting. It doesn't occur to him that even as he refused to learn the technique of the theater, so he has refused to learn the technique of life.

Are you one of those folks who break into a new business convinced that you can tell the old hands how they ought to run it?

Do you fancy that all the experience of centuries is as nothing compared to the puny observations of a few years?

Don't forget that all through life there are two viewpoints possible—yours from where you stand and that of the "folks out front" who have a perspective far different from yours, and who see things under a different "lighting" from that where you stand.

The real truth about any situation—or the true reflection of any condition—is difficult to find unless you move about and get a perspective on things. Make sure that you have seen a subject from every angle. Try to allow for the technical knowledge and experience of those with whom you deal. And when it comes to the minor details of a job you have not yet mastered, don't stubbornly insist on having your own way. Recognise that the biggest value you can get from any situation is to see the truth about it and that an open mind will enable you to learn from the stage-carpenters and audiences of life.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Lady, if a man annoys you
There's a way to check the fool.
When the person who employs you
Gets too fresh be calm and cool;
If he tries to make advances,
With intentions that are bad,
Hand him two or three hard glances;
And then say to him: "You cad!"

That appears to be the magic
Word that stops them with a jerk;
Even when their moods are tragic
It is sure to do its work.
No man seems to be so surly
Or so soulless or so mad
That he still ill-treats a girlie

After she exclaims: "You cad!"
When the lovely maid is driven
To a corner, in the play,
And the villain has been given
A clear chance to have his way,
We can feel with sweet assurance
That the gallery will be glad
When, provoked beyond endurance,
She ejaculates: "You cad!"

Always somewhere in the story
We are sure to find the page
That exalts the maiden's glory
And reveals the plotter's rage;
She may have no weapon handy,
But it's only fair to add
That her triumph's fine and dandy
When she proudly says: "You cad!"

It is eesy for mail carryers to be civil, sed Pa.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the Freight market, Messrs Wheelock and Company write as follows:

Since last writing the export trade to Europe and America has continued quiet and there is no forward business of any volume to report. The tea market has shown some activity and shipments to both Continents have increased accordingly, the Season, however, is expected to be a short one, although brisk.

TO UNITED STATES VIA PACIFIC

A fair amount of tea and egg products are going forward but nothing to speak of in the way of general cargo.

We would draw the attention of shippers to a reduction in the ocean rate on Pongees, Silk and Silk goods to Gold $24.00 plus ½ % instead of G. $27.50 plus 1% ad valorem.

COASTWISE

There is little or no change to report in the situation since our last issue and the demand from the north has now subsided but rates continue firm all round.

PEKING DENIES FENG HAS QUIT AS TROOP CHIEF

Rumors Of Hitch Began After His Quarrel Over Job

Peking, July 12.—The Government has issued a statement denying the report that General Feng Yu-hsiang has resigned his position as Director-General of Metropolitan troops.

The hitch between Chang Ying-hua and General Feng is this: Chang recommended one Mr. Wang for the Directorship of the Chungwenmen Octroi Tax without first sounding out General Feng's opinion. Then Wang called on General Feng for an interview, saying that Minister Chang asked him to supervise the collection of the Octroi Tax because Tupan Sih, a protege of General Feng, was too incompetent to do this important work.

Wang's statement made General Feng so angry that he turned him out, saying, "The Government does not know my point, so you had better go."

Tsao Jui is negotiating with Tientsin bankers for a loan of $1,600,000 to be secured on the Heng Yuen Cotton Mill. This sum of money is to be used to install Tsao Kun, his brother, in the Presidential chair.

The managing-director of the cotton mill is reported to be in receipt of stamp tax forms to the amount of 2,000,000 dollars to be mortgaged for cash. The negotiation is proceeding favorably. However, some unseen disasters may overtake these bargainers, for a certain influential Fengtianer has a lot of money invested in the Heng Yuen Mill. So the whole plan very probably will go on the rocks.

The elimination of Chang Ying-hua from the portfolio of Finance paves the way for Wang Ko-min to assume the functions of the Minister of Finance. An announcement was issued by Mr. Wang, stating that he would be glad to replace Chang Ying-hua.

It is reported that Wang will probably hold the Directorship of the Salt Gabelle concurrently.

The Directors of the Bank of China warn Wang against ruining the credit of the Bank as a result of his assuming office as Minister of Finance.

A mandate will soon be issued appointing Wang Ko-min to the Ministership of Finance.

DRAW MEMORANDUM

The Members of Parliament have drawn up a memorandum to be presented to the Cabinet officials as a protest against Wang's appointment The Peking legislators are said to be distributing printed matter concerning Wang's alleged maladministration and corruption in the Bank of China.

The Paotingfu Warlord is in conference with a band of rabble parliamentarians who are job-hunters. One said that if he were appointed to the Directorate of the Peking Hankow line, he would secure 100 balloting-tickets cast in favor of Marshal Tsao Kun for the presidency. The other said that he would pull together eighty-five men to vote for the Chihli leader if he were offered the Tupan-ship of the Tientsin Pukow Railway. Of course, this is mere bargaining between Tsao Kun and the Peking solons.

Little Pien arrived in Tientsin yesterday. He had held several conferences with the Tientsin Party before he went about his business which is to raise funds to conduct the presidential campaign.

Pien instructed Chang Tiao-jen to summon the salt merchants to a preliminary meeting for the purpose of extorting "gifts" from the merchants.

Four-six firms were represented in this "money-making" get-together. Little Pien said something to this effect.

"I order you to pay 2,000000 as a part of your contributions to the presidential campaign funds, otherwise I will cut off the monopolistic privileges you now enjoy through the kindness of the Government."

MERCHANTS AROUSED

This statement aroused the ire of the salt merchants who refused to pay a single cent to the campaign managers. Fearful of precipitating a crisis, Pien said that the sum could be boiled down to one million dollars. The salt merchants stood pat, so negotiations are now proceeding in Tientsin.

Chin Yung-peng is in constant communication with the leader of a certain secret party which has its head-office in Tsinan. Chin desires his former colleagues and friends to elevate him to the Tuchunship of Shantung, well knowing that his past record may be looked at askance and that he is persona non grata with the people of Shantung.

In response to Chin's call for political assistance, the Shantung Assemblymen sent three representatives to Peking to confer with Chin Yung-peng with a view to overthrowing Tien Chung-yu, the present incumbent, from power.

Tientsin telegrams have it that Chin will soon be appointed to the Tuchunship of Shantung by the Rump Cabinet in Peking. The interesting thing is that Chang Shu-yuen is also working hard to manoeuvre himself into this post, knowing that Chin has got the better of him in the political race.

Lih Teh Oil Co., Ltd., Meets

The thirteenth annual general meeting of the Lih Teh Oil Mill Co., Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon.

The chairman's speech was as follows:

"Gentleman: The reoprt and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, follow the usual course and take them as read.

"The year under review may be considered to be satisfactory in results and the Mill has been engaged for 189 days of 24 hours crushing cotton seeds, which were of very fair quality throughout the season.

"The season opened with cotton seeds at Tls. 1.51 per picul, which was a reasonable price and was the lowest price recorded during the season.

"We purchased spot and contracted for as much as possible at this price but as the market advanced steadily, all deliveries under cheap contracts were 20 percent to 30 percent short, showing the absolute unreliability of the Chinese merchant to stand by a contract that is not favorable to himself. The highest price reached was Tls. 2.32 per picul and at the end of May cotton seeds were practically unavailable at any reasonable or profitable figure and from the experience of many years, the supply of cotton seeds is found to be only sufficient to run a mill from November to June and it is difficult to crush any other oil seeds obtainable in China on a profitable basis.

"The product of the mill in both oils and cake has met with a ready sale and there has been a good outlet for our oil for Chinese consumption and this demand seems to be increasing rapidly owing to our being able to deliver a uniform and reliable product.

"The machinery has been kept in good repair at a cost of Tls. 9,448.87 for renewals and repairs.

"The stock of Tls. 232,434.58 represents cake and oils which were nearly all sold at the end of the financial year and clearances to date have been very satisfactory and the stock today is down to Tls. 120,000.

"The profit for the year was Tls. 88,380.64 and after deducting the debit at profit and loss account of Tls. 20,199.23, there is a balance of Tls. 68,181.41 for distribution and it is proposed to pay:

	Tls.
A dividend of 10 percent, absorbing	26,000.00
Place to Depreciation Fund, Making same Tls. 100,000	25,000.00
Pay Bonus to Staff	3,000.00
And carry forward the balance of	14,181.41
	Tls. 68,181.41

"Before putting the resolutions to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may wish to ask."

The following resolutions were passed:

That the report and accounts for the year ended May 31, 1923, together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at credit of profit and loss account as presented be accepted.

That the appointment of Mr. A. K. Craddock as a director of the company be confirmed.

That Mr. Liu Chang-yin be re-elected a director of the company.

That Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson be re-elected auditors to the company.
